Annual Farm Bureau Meeting Scheduled For November 8th

C. E. Pickering, president of the Greene County Farm Bureau Co-op, announced this week that the annual meeting of the Farm Bureau Federation will be held Monday, November 8th, at Xenia Central High School Auditorium, at 8:00 p. m.

The program will consist of the Election of Directors, Adoption of Resolutions, an Educational Message, a Quiz program, and refreshments. C. E. Pickering, Rt. No. 2, Jamestown, will preside over the meeting, in which all members and their friends are urged to attend.

Six trustees will be elected, one from each township, and resolutions will be adopted that will become a "blue-print" for legislative action for the coming year.

An especially novel Quiz program, patterned after the television show, "Two for the Money" will be conducted with Clair Young acting as master of ceremonies. Two members of each F. F. A. Chapter in the county will be the participants. Members are requested to bring a pie with them to this meeting and the remainder of the refreshments will be furnished. Bring your friends and enjoy the social part of the evening and take part in the business meeting.

YELLOW SPRINGS, OHIO — When folks talk about "raising the roof" these days, they may mean it. At Antioch College, for instance, where a new men's dormitory is being built, they "raised the roof" first — and then the other three floors by the new lift-slab construction process, first time it had been used in this part of the country. All cement slabs for roof and floors were poured in one frame on the ground, with only foundry sand and liquid wax separating them. Each slab then was lifted into position by giant hydraulic jacks. The picture above was taken recently after the roof of the three-story dorm had been raised into place, and the top floor was starting its rise. On the ground are the slabs still to go up.

A NEW DAY

NOVEMBER 11, 1954

by BRUCE CATTON
1954 Pulitzer Prize Winner
Author of
"A Stillness at Appomattox"

A long time ago, Rudyard Kipling remarked that the soldier is a national hero during a war and a forgotten man as soon as peace comes.

In a democracy, that is only natural. We have no militaristic tradition and we do not want one. The citizen-soldier steps forward in emergency to do his duty—doing it so heroically and faithfully, incidentally, that to date he has always turned out to be a better fighter than the hopped-up, over-trained professionals from the totalitarian states—and then he goes back to civilian life. His war-time experiences belong with the past. They become part of the haunting and abiding memories that go to make up our national heritage.

But in thousands of cases the soldier does not get off so easily. He has something that he cannot simply file away with his memories: a painful reminder that he can never escape from—not even for a moment, as long as he may live—of the price that is sometimes exacted of the man who serves his country in battle.

That man is the disabled veteran: the man who took wounds that will not heal, who went back to the peace-time round, wholly or partially handicapped and for whom there can never be a complete and final healing.

He cannot forget. His tragedy is that the rest of us unfortunately can. Too often we do forget, even though we are permanently in his debt.

November 11 is Veterans Day: a day set aside, by act of Congress and Presidential proclamation, to honor the memory of those who served in war. It has particular reference to the living—for it is on Memorial Day that we pay our tribute to the men who never came back—and unless the day is to be a complete mockery it must include a renewed awareness of our obligation to the disabled ex-soldier. The Disabled American Veterans—the D.A.V.—aptly point out that the disabled serviceman is asking for nothing more than a fair chance to make his own way in the world.

He doesn't particularly want to be a burden, and he is not demanding huge appropriations from the public treasury. What he does want is the kind of sympathetic understanding and active support that will make it easier for him to resume his place, in spite of physical handicaps, as a regular member of society.

That is not very much for him to ask, and it is assuredly the very least that we can give. If we find it hard to understand the attitude that we carry over into our regular point to discharge that obligation in the attitude that we carry over into our regular workaday routine, life for the disabled veteran will be a good deal easier and happier. There could be no better time than Veterans Day for us to renew our awareness of what we owe to the man who took wounds in battle—for us.

Fireman's Halloween Carnival Well Attended, Despite Weather

The third annual Halloween Carnival staged by the Fireman's Association, was well attended despite the inclement weather. The parade, several blocks long, assembled in front of the Cozy Theatre, proceeded north on Main street, turned and returned down Main street in front of the reviewing stand.

Due to the heavy down-pour of rain, all concessions were forced to go in-doors, this was a great disappointment to everyone.

Those winning prizes were:

- | COSTUMES | FLOATS |
| Best dressed couple, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Riley; Most Patriotic, Bruce and John Spitzer; Most Comical Couple, Janet Cummings and Joyce Griffith; Most Comical single, Julia Staegers; Most original group, Farmer-crow-scare-crow; Most original single, Billy Lemons; Smallest single, Donald Hampton; Best decorated bicycle and rider, Pat Snyder; Best decorated pet, Keith Lowry; Best costumed horse and rider, Janice Fowler, and Largest delegation, Girl Scouts. | Most original, 1st, Bob Williams, 2nd, Future Farmers, 3rd, Cummings Chevrolet; Most Patriotic, Happy Hustlers 4-H Club; Best Religious, Presbyterian Church and Most Beautiful, 4-H Club. |
- The Judges were Mrs. George Rickels, Mrs. Leroy Jacobs and Mrs. Harold Rheindard.
- The Association stated since this was their third time to stage this event, they hope next year to make the Carnival a bigger and better affair.

Civil Service Announces Chemistry Positions Are Now Open

The Sixth U. S. Civil Service Regional Office at Cincinnati, Ohio today reannounced an examination for Chemist, GS-5, and Mathematician, GS-5, in order to meet personnel needs of various Federal agencies in Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia. The entrance salary for these positions is $3410 a year.

To qualify for the position of Chemist applicants must have completed a full four-year college course leading to a bachelor's degree in chemistry, or have a combination of appropriate education and experience equivalent to the four-year requirement. For the position of Mathematician, applicants must have completed a full four-year college course leading to a bachelor's degree which included 24 semester hours in courses in mathematics and 12 semester hours in courses in the physical sciences. A combination of appropriate education and experience totaling four years will be accepted.

Full particulars regarding the examination and the forms to be filed, or information where they may be obtained, can be secured from the Sixth U. S. Civil Service Regional Office, Cincinnati 2, Ohio.

Mrs. Stormont Hostess To Greene Cedar Club

The Green Cedar Garden Club met at the home of Mrs. H. K. Stormont, Monday, October 25. Mrs. John Blazer gave a talk on "Chrysanthemums" and Mrs. Edward Bull showed films on that flower.

Courses of chrysanthemums were presented to three members, Mrs. William Stormont, Mrs. James Turnbull and Mrs. Lucy Turner. A dessert course was served by the hostess. Several flower arrangements were displayed. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Leslie Stormont.

Attend OES Grand Chapter

Representatives from Cedarville OES Chapter at the Grand Chapter Order of the Eastern Star, held at the Public Auditorium in Cleveland last week were, Miss Rachael Finney, Mrs. Nancy Wright, Mrs. Dorothy Evans and Mrs. Jane Mills. Sessions convened on Tuesday and adjourned Thursday.

Jane Mills and Rachael Finney were in the Opening Drill of the session. Nancy Wright assisted in the floor work for the installation of Grand Chapter Officers for the coming year.

Legislation for the OES Home passed and the Home will soon be opened for use. They will be able to care for 72 guests.

Local Couple Observe Fiftieth Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac W. Planck, Wilberforce-Clifton Rd., observed their 50th Wedding Anniversary at their home last Sunday with open house.

Mr. and Mrs. Planck were married November 2, 1904 in Spring Valley and have resided in Greene County the greater part of their married life.

They have three sons: Messrs. Lawrence Planck of Springfield, Gilbert Planck of Dayton and Marion Planck of Middletown and nine grandchildren.

Mrs. Gilbert Planck decorated the home for the occasion and acted as hostess for the day.

Exercise "Tobacco Leaf IV"

Some 375 Ohio Army Reservists and National Guardsmen pushed off to Fort Knox, Ky. Friday, to participate in a gigantic mock battle tagged "Exercise Tobacco Leaf IV" by the U. S. Second Army.

The operation, which will spotlight a Second Army "offensive" against "aggressor" forces fortified in Philadelphia, will be conducted from headquarters located at Knox and Fort George G. Meade Md., Oct. 30-31.

The Ohio Reservists and Guardsmen, members of the 83rd Reserve Infantry Division and the 37th Infantry Division (ONG), will help engage the enemy in a simulated battle that will include the tactical use of atomic weapons, helicopters and other special weapons.

All officers and enlisted men participating in "Tobacco Leaf", a Second Army Command Post Exercise, have been given security clearances.

The paper problem which has been developed yearly since 1951, presumes that "aggressor" forces have occupied a large portion of Canada and Northeastern United States and that the Second Army has mobilized its units for a counterattack.

Commanders and their staffs will endeavor to deploy their "paper troops and equipment" in such a manner as to recapture Philadelphia. Second Army Deputy Commander George W. Smythe will direct the exercise.

Purpose of the exercise is to give commanders the opportunity to apply logistical, tactical, and administrative principles to the solution of combat problems; to function under field conditions; and to improve individual techniques and skills.

Lieutenant Colonel Nicholas J. Constantine, 3599 Cheryl Drive, Hamilton, O., and Major Louis L. Doughman, 420 W. Siebenthaler Ave., Dayton, O., are two Dayton-area Reservists who will participate in the exercise.

LEST WE FORGET

The big dangers to our American Institutions from Communism is not Communist Plotting * * * it is the appalling complacency of those who should be alert to the dangers of Communism * * * it is the lack of information, coordination, and cooperation by responsible groups that should be working together to meet the threat of Communist conspiracy and treachery!

Communism is a community problem.

At a time or another Communistic Activity strikes at every civic, industrial, business, labor, church, veteran, professional and fraternal organization.

Communists knife from without and they infiltrate and disrupt from within.

No responsible organization in the community is immune from Communist attack and disruption.

Today — every Communist Party in the world is brazenly dedicated to world revolution and the violent overthrow of every non-communist government in the world.

Communists are trained, professional revolutionists.

Communists have a long range program. Into this long range program they fit specific short term projects.

In contrast to the Communists, most anti-communists are amateur. Anti-communists don't even have a central medium for the exchange of information.

The inadequacies of a community approach to solving problems arising from Communism could be summed up under four major headings:

(1.) Wide spread lack of understanding of our American system in contrast to the Communism of Marx, Engels, Lenin and Stalin.

(2.) An almost total lack of liaison, cooperation and coordination between many responsible organized groups, all of whom are concerned about Communism and many of whom are actively combating it.

(3.) An equally serious absence, of any training in how to understand Communism or to cope with it; and the absence of any reliable and responsible place to which persons in leadership positions could go to get such training.

(4.) General ignorance, misinformation and lack of proper, factual information on nearly every phase of Communism and the problems it presents to community leadership.

On November 11, we will observe Veteran's Day. VETERANS. They are people, men and women who have fought bodily and given of themselves at home and abroad for the protection of our freedom. They fought for freedom from Nazism, freedom from Facism, freedom from Communism.

They fought for these freedoms, in uniform, and now it is these same veterans who are still fighting Communism, Socialism and will fight any other Ism which endangers our American Freedom.

It is up to the citizens and non-veterans to support our Veterans. Everyday should be veterans' observance day so that we would not forget the sacrifice they made to defend our freedom.

SUGAR OR LEMON?

Peiping is having quite a social season. Following the festal visit of Britain's Clement Attlee, Chou En-lai, Red China's "prime minister" has just entertained his Indian opposite number, Jawaharlal Nehru at a lavish dinner. Mr. Attlee wanted trade — at any price. Mr. Nehru wants "co-existence" — presumably at the usual price.

In his plea for peace, Nehru admitted that China and India had their differences, but added: "We don't wish to impose our way of life on any one accustomed to a different way."

And this is certainly a sentiment to which every American would agree. But if it's still news to the Indian Prime Minister, the Reds not only "wish" to run things their way, but are determined to do so . . . in his country and in every other country on the globe. It has also been noted by other students of our times that they are doing alright.

What Mr. Nehru is heading for is just plain, bare existence. There ain't going to be no "co"!

Who Promoted Peress??

Not since first-century Christians were thrown to the lions in the Coliseum at Rome has such a spectacle of persecution for propaganda purposes been staged as the censure "trial" of Senator Joseph McCarthy scheduled to start in the U. S. Senate chamber Nov. 8. The two spectacles are practically identical in purpose.

Christians were martyred in Rome for amusement of sadistic elements of the population, but more importantly as a warning to all citizens that it was not safe to be a follower of Jesus Christ, who, during his earthly ministry, had taught a doctrine new to the world, of the supreme importance of the individual regardless of race or social status. This doctrine was anathema to Roman oligarchs; they well knew that their day would end if and when the citizens accepted this teaching.

Today the Communists, Socialists and other collectivists know that their day is done in any nation whose people firmly adhere to New Testament doctrines.

So, the spectacle in the Senate chamber has been arranged to prove — as if any proof were necessary — that the Daily Worker's demands must not be ignored, and he who heeds not this warning will be sacrificed on the altar of Communist bigotry.

No vast crowds will cheer on the Senators baiting the victim of their subservience to Communist decrees, but the chamber will swarm with men of the press and wire, radio and television services blazoning to the world all of the sordid details of the scourging of the patriot who dared to demand, "Who promoted Peress?"

The doughy general who refused to name the Army's Commie-coddlers well may have acted under orders not to tell or to reveal that he had been gagged. But to what was the general's first loyalty due, his country or the Army brass? We agree with the senator: the silent general is not fit to serve as defender of a free nation, and McCarthy would have been a craven lout had he withheld deserved rebuke.

God save America! He is our only hope! And it is clear that He will get little help from a Senate which has set up this inquisition for propaganda purposes.

Continuance of list of Communist and Communist front organizations:

AMERICAN LEAGUE AGAINST WAR AND FACISM, AMERICAN LEAGUE FOR PEACE AND DEMOCRACY, AMERICAN LEAGUE OF EX-SERVICE-MEN, AMERICAN NEGRO LABOR CONGRESS, AMERICAN PEACE CRUSADE, AMERICAN PEOPLES FUND, AMERICAN PEOPLE'S MEETING, AMERICAN PEOPLES MOBILIZATION, AMERICAN PUSHKIN COMMITTEE, AMERICAN RESCUE SHIP MISSION, AMERICAN ROUND TABLE ON INDIA, AMERICAN-RUSSIAN FRATERNAL SOCIETY (1950), AMERICAN-RUSSIAN INSTITUTE (New York, Phila., Los Angeles), AMERICAN-RUSSIAN MUSIC CORP., AMERICAN SERBIAN COMMITTEE FOR RELIEF OF WAR ORPHANS OF YUGOSLAVIA, AMERICAN SLAV CONGRESS, AMERICAN SOCIETY FOR CULTURAL RELATIONS WITH RUSSIA, AMERICAN SOCIETY FOR TECHNICAL AID TO SPANISH DEMOCRACY, AMERICAN-SOVIET MUSIC SOCIETY, AMERICAN-SOVIET SCIENCE SOCIETY, AMERICAN SPONSORING COMMITTEE FOR REPRESENTATION AT THE SECOND WORLD PEACE CONGRESS (1951), AMERICAN STUDENT UNION, AMERICAN TECHNICAL AID SOCIETY, AMERICAN VETERANS FOR PEACE (cited as an organization which the Daily Worker, Feb 22, 1951, describes as participating in the campaign of the American Peace Crusade, and other Communist front organizations), AMERICAN WOMEN FOR PEACE (Cited as "an advance wave to establish a beach head for other left-wing organizations scheduled to descend on Washington in observance of a Communist-declared "Peace Week."")

WHAT ARE WE WAITING FOR?

Mrs. Karl E. Sommerlatte, the attractive and spirited young wife of the Second Secretary in our embassy in Moscow, is returning home "persona non grata," according to latest information. This action follows the personal and ineffectual protest of US Ambassador Charles E. Bolen to Russian Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov.

As you will recall Mrs. Sommerlatte and the wife of the assistant Naval attache, Marine Lt. Col. Houston Stiff, were walking near the Embassy when they asked a group of Russian women if they might take their pictures. The Russian women declined to pose, and the two Americans gave up the idea, leaving their camera in its case. Two men in plain clothes then suggested there were interesting photo subjects nearby and led them into a club building. The women sensed something was wrong and attempted to leave the building when they were forcibly restrained and kept there an hour and a half in spite of their diplomatic identification cards. During their scuffle, Mrs. Sommerlatte, it is said, slapped one of the two secret policemen. This the Kremlin calls "holliganism."

Since neither our State Department in Washington nor our Ambassador has been able to protect either the dignity of the affronted ladies or that of the United States, we think Mrs. Sommerlatte should be accompanied home by the entire US Embassy staff—including Ambassador Bolen, who shouldn't have gone to Moscow in the first place.

At the same time Washington should arrange transportation for all Red "diplomats," consular agents and other functionaries within our borders. Painful as this incident has been for the ladies it provides the State Department with the perfect opportunity for a housecleaning job here. Certainly the demand of increasing numbers of Americans over the past months of mounting Russian insolence that we sever relations can no longer be ignored.

Or are we going in for "co-existence" — along with Nehru?

THE WHOLE STORY

Dr. George W. Crane is a widely syndicated columnist who often writes on questions and problems suggested to him by readers. Recently he dealt with the complaint of a farmer. The farmer said that steers he sold for 25 cents a pound wound up in the butcher shops in the shape of dollar a pound steaks, and reasoned from this that the packers were making huge profits.

Dr. Crane looked into the matter. He found that at the start of this year the packers paid $258 for a 1,000 pound steer. That steer dressed out at only 590 pounds, for which, at the average wholesale price, the packers received $241.90. In other words, they sold it for $16.10 less than they paid for it. That difference, plus a very small profit, was made up by selling hide, hair and other non-edible by-products.

On being told this, the farmer said that it must be the retailer who was making the big money out of beef. Again Dr. Crane investigated. This time he found that water loss and unsalable bones and trimmings cut the 590 pound carcass to 450 pounds of marketable meat. Only a little of this provided highpriced steaks, while much of it became hamburger and moderately-priced cuts. So the butcher got a total of $291.40 out of his $241.90 steer—a gross profit of $50. And that had to cover rent, wages, insurance, taxes and all his other expenses, not just a profit.

Dr. Crane made the point in these words: "Too many Americans see only the cash register gross sales. They fail to deduct the many costs and overhead charges."

DO IT YOURSELF

Most home handy men can hook up extra lights in a garage or basement work area if an electric circuit has already been installed close by.

You won't want 110 volts "tingling" up your arm, so turn off the electricity first. Then install a new fixture box, and run a cable from the closest light fixture to the new box.

Household magazine says to be sure and hook up the wires in a series. That is, connect the white wires to the white wires and the black wires to the black wires. Also, attach the black wires to the gold screws in the fixtures.

The bare wire ends may be soldered or twisted together and taped. Or, if you prefer, use screw-on solderless connectors.

From the Italy News-Herald, many editors in the United States fail to take advantage of the privileges that are theirs. Many of them have the idea that people do not read editorials; are not interested in what the editor thinks. We know this is not true, because experience has shown us that we get more complaints when we omit our editorial page than from omission of any other part of our newspaper.

From the Anderson County Journal, Exira, Iowa: Irving Berlin took a piece of paper and wrote a $50,000 song . . . that's what we call genius. When Rockefeller signed a worthless piece of paper and made it a half-million dollar check . . . that's capital. When a watchmaker takes $5 worth of steel and turns it into $1000 worth of watch springs . . . that's skill. But when a man, destitute for a place to call home, looks at an apartment and the owner asks if he has any children—and he puts on a long face and says, "Yes . . . but they are in the cemetery," and he pays six months rent in advance—and then goes out to the cemetery and says to the children that they can come home now . . . that's brains.

Army Reserve Opens Communication School

Major Walter V. Shevchik, Officer in Charge of the Army Reserve Center in Dayton, Ohio, has announced the proposed opening of an electronics school to begin during October. The school will be in session one hour each Tuesday evening at the Army Reserve Center, 303 Keowee Street, here in Dayton, and will be under the direction of the personnel of the 318th Signal Support Co., one of the Reserve units at the Dayton USAR Center. Primary purpose of the school will be to enable men of the Signal Co., to become educated in the principles employed in communications by electricity. The course will begin with introduction of the basic principles of electricity and conclude with principles as applied to radio, radar, and television communications.

Men in the Dayton area who are interested in communications either as a trade or as a hobby are urged to visit the class and also inspect the latest in Signal Corps equipment used in the second hour practical training each Tuesday evening. Included in this equipment is radio, radio-relay, teletype and telephone.

For those not interested in communications, there are openings in the administrative, supply, transportation and messing units of the company.

All young men 17 years old or older are encouraged to investigate the benefits attendant with assignment to the 318th Signal Support Co. by contacting any of the personnel at the Dayton Army Reserve Center. The Center is open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday thru Friday, and from 8:30 a.m. to 12:00 noon Saturday. In addition the Center is open Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings from 7:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m.

Operation Dry Run

"Operation Dry Run,"—calling for mass inspection of snow and ice equipment during October 19 to November 5—was announced by the Ohio Highway Department's Maintenance Bureau.

"The unseasonable warm October weather will not find the Highway Department napping in Ohio's eighty-eight counties," said S. O. Linzell, Director of Ohio's Highway Department.

Some 1,200 pieces of equipment will undergo "dry run" inspection, to be used in snow and ice control. Each piece is tested for satisfactory operation and for safety equipment.

Linzell also said that the maintenance priority system covering some 1,150 miles would be followed throughout the State by Ohio's twelve divisions.

Ohio stockpile of salt, sand and cinders were plentiful in the divisions according to the latest reports with more on order if needed.

Last year the department used 65,400 tons of chemicals and 110,000 tons of abrasives. Two thirds of a million feet of snow fence was erected.

"We hope the driving public will take advantage of cinder piles placed along our heavily traveled highways and hills until our equipment arrives," said Linzell.

Cooperation by motorist was also asked by state officials in yielding right-of-way to snow plows during snow removal and ice control operation.

DO IT YOURSELF

If there's a lot of telephoning going on at your house, plan a place for it. Perhaps there's a nook nearby that you could take over and convert into your own private telephone booth.

Here are two ideas that can be adapted to any house, making practical use of very little space. They are secluded corners, pleasant, comfortable and easily accessible. And they save the expense of a telephone table and are more convenient, too.

October Household magazine suggests putting up a single, plain shelf in one corner of your kitchen, to hold the phone and book. Decorations, such as a carved wooden clock, what-not shelf, or wall planter, can be added to make a pleasant phoning nook.

Look into the possibilities of converting a tiny hall closet. Such a recessed space may be a little-used part of the house. Minus door, it makes a perfect corner for your phone, away from interfering noise. The overhead shelves of the closet give you a chance to dress up the bare hallway with bric-a-brac.

What's new with Chevrolet? everything!

Wonderful new Glide-Ride Front Suspension
New spherical joints flex freely to cushion all road shocks. New exclusive Anti-Dive Braking Control, assures "heads up" stops.

Even Air Conditioning, if you wish
Air is heated or cooled by a single unit that fits compactly into the front of the car. Requires no trunk space! (V8 models only.) And that's only one of the wonderful extra-cost options you can get!

Great new V8—two new 6's
New "Turbo-Fire V8" delivers 162 h.p. with an ultra-high compression ratio of 8 to 1. You can choose from two new 6's, too—the new "Blue-Flame 136" with Powerglide (optional at extra cost) and the new "Blue-Flame 123."

Easier steering, stopping, clutching
The new Chevrolet steers with ball-bearing ease, thanks to new friction-cutting Ball-Race Steering. New Swing-Type Pedals pivot at the top.

Tubeless tires as standard equipment
On all models! Proved tubeless tires give you greater protection against a blowout... deflate more slowly when punctured.

A ventilating system that really works
Chevrolet's new High-Level Ventilating System takes in cleaner air at hood-high level—away from road heat, fumes and dust.

Three drives, including Overdrive
There's Powerglide teamed with the new V8 or the new "Blue-Flame 136." New Overdrive teamed with the new V8 or the new "Blue-Flame 123." (Powerglide and Overdrive are extra-cost options.) New standard transmission, too!

And look what you see from the driver's seat
Chevrolet's new Sweep-Sight Windshield curves around to vertical corner pillars, giving you a wide, full view. And you can see all four fenders from the driver's seat!

Overdrive
POWERGLIDE CONVENTIONAL DRIVE

The Bel Air 4-Door Sedan

Chevrolet and General Motors have started something—a whole new age of low-cost motoring—by taking a whole new look at the low-cost car. Here are new ideas, young ideas... and some of tomorrow's ideas, too! And they're all rolled up in the most glamorous package that ever wore anything like a Chevrolet price tag!

This is the car that began with a great idea—the idea that a low-priced car could be built that would have the style, the performance, the comfort and convenience features, and the fine quality "feel" of high-priced cars.

This is the car that only the world's leading car builders—Chevrolet and General Motors—could have built. The Motoramic Chevrolet! Come in and see how the Motoramic Chevrolet for '55 is far more than a new model. It's more, even, than a completely new car. It's a whole new idea about cars!

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Mrs. Torado McFarland Meyers, Spokane, Washington: I remember over fifty years ago in Okanogan County, Washington, when the North half of the Colville Indian Reservation was opened for homesteads.

My parents filed on 160 acres. As everything was raw and new, most people lived in log houses. There were no school houses, not even little red ones. I remember attending school in a one room log cabin. There was one door and the school board put in the only window. The cabin was owned by an Indian woman.

During rainy weather we would all stay in at recess and play a game. We would see who could find the most bullet holes in the log walls. Our desks were home-made as were the benches we sat on.

Several mice attended school rather regularly. Our young lady teacher, true to form, was afraid of them. Whenever one of the "beasts" appeared, teacher would dash outside until one of the boys chased the mouse away.

We all carried our lunches in either lard pails or tobacco cans, with handles. These were set on a shelf beside the door. Our teacher all but fainted one day when a girl found a large bull snake coiled around her lunch pail.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Our Town Makes Good in New York City

Couldn't place a new subscriber named Clark, but I found out who they were last week when they dropped in The Clarion's office.

"We're native New Yorkers," Mrs. Clark said, "and all our friends there are originally from other places. We always felt left out when they talked about things 'back home.'"

"That's why we 'adopted' your town and to get all the news we subscribed to The Clarion. Now we have a 'back home' to talk about—and we think it's the most wonderful town there is!"

From where I sit, just about everyone thinks his own home town is best. Picking your town comes natural. The right to do this "picking," though, is what really counts. Whether it's a favorite town, a favorite cut of meat, or even a choice of a beverage—say between beer and buttermilk, it's respecting the right to this freedom of choice that makes a good neighbor. I hope you subscribe to that!

Rep up droopy cows and hens with automatic electric ventilation of their living quarters

Stale air puts me off my feed ..spoils my milk production record

It's the humidity and odors that get me down—

They'd tell you—if cows and hens could talk—that clean, draft-free fresh air is as necessary to them as food and water—summer or winter. Unless they have a comfortably ventilated building, animals become sluggish.

Cows in a properly ventilated dairy barn eat more, drink more, produce more milk. Ventilation keeps the stable dry, removes offensive odors, introduces an even flow of fresh air.

In the poultry house, an electric ventilation system helps continuous high production by providing the comfort that encourages maximum feed and water consumption. Ventilation removes moisture and ammonia fumes, and makes the use of deep litter practical.

Destructive dampness collecting on walls of farm buildings rots wood, ruins paint jobs, piles up repair costs, and shortens the life of poorly ventilated barns and poultry houses.

Raccoon Season Open

Raccoon hunters were eagerly awaiting the opening of the raccoon season Monday, November 1, according to the Division of Wildlife. The raccoon trapping season, however, does not open until December 1.

There has been a large population in Ohio ever since World War II, with a peak occurring in 1952. Reports indicate that there has been a slight tapering off in a few local areas, but that raccoons are still abundant in the Buckeye State, particularly in the northern half. It was because of this abundance that the hunting season was started earlier this year in an attempt to bring the raccoon harvest more nearly in line with the supply.

The season opens at 6:00 p.m. on November 1, extends to midnight, January 31. Hunting hours are from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m., and both the daily limit and possession limit are four. The possession limit applies to hunters in the field or returning from hunting only. The hunting season for opossums and shunks runs concurrently, but with no restrictions as to hunting hours, daily limit, or possession limit.

Due to recent heavy rains, farmers in northern Ohio have not yet harvested all of their soy beans. Hunters should be aware of this situation, and stay out of soy bean fields. And one last reminder—be sure to ask the farmer's permission before you hunt.

Just Thinkin'

BY PAUL ABELS

One of the basic fundamentals of our democracy is the privilege of voting. Too many citizens sit back on election day and say "what good will my one little vote do?" How many people do you think would sit idly by and watch their house crumble before them when they knew one little X on a sheet of paper might save it? That is exactly what many Americans are doing presently. They are sitting back, indifferent to the fact that our great United States is showing signs of deterioration. All sturdy houses that have withstood the wear of the ages have got at least a sturdy foundation. Take your house for instance. If you will examine it closely, you will probably discover that, disregarding the age of the upper part of the building, the foundation is in good shape and you need not worry about it. But think which part of the house falls first. The top, of course. It is probably made of less durable materials and will not last forever, unless constant repairs are made. The same is the way with our precious America. We must constantly "repair" our system with new men and new thoughts. And you, the residents of the house, are the ones that must do it if the building is to remain in good condition. The foundation upon which we built our house was the incomparable Constitution, the Declaration of Independence, freedom of religion, speech, and others. Since that time we have finished building our house, but we must constantly, day and night, keep repairing and improving the superstructure so that it will not return to dust and be replaced by another experiment in government. Surely our democracy must be destined by the Almighty to be something great. History has never before produced a system of government which compares with ours. Therefore, it is our bounden duty to see to it that our motherland does not fall into disrepair and fade away. The best way to do this is to vote and be proud of it. I hope that all who read this who inexcusably did not vote are thoroughly ashamed of themselves and do ask God to forgive them and thank Him for, even though they failed in helping to keep them, the blessings of liberty which they are still enjoying.

"THERE THEY GO, MOM!"

SCANNING THE NEWS

THERE is renewed talk in Washington over creation of a Department of Transportation at cabinet level. And paradoxically this talk, which may have reached the planning stage, is being brought about by pressure from the country's railroads. Railroads have always fought regulation. But they are crying for help now. Few major railroads in the country, excepting the Rio Grand Railroad which is not a large system as compared to some others, are operating in the black. Most all are losing money.

Greatest money loser for the railroads is the passenger service, plus the dining car service. And even in the freight service, despite the cheerful prognostications of some leaders, in and out of government, that business is on the upgrade, railroads are barely breaking even. They are bringing renewed pressure against their competition—the airplane and bus and truck carriers—against government subsidies for the airplanes and use of tax-supported highways by trucks and buses. They are calling for an end to government subsidies which they say are aiding these competitors. The railroads in their pressure tactics seem to forget that for half a century they were heavily subsidized by the government, both in grants for thousands of acres of public lands and in heavy mail subsidies. As a matter of fact, however, some railroads have agreed to carry the mail for Uncle Sam at rates even under figures set by the Post Office Department. But there is no question but that the railroads are in a desperate strait, and are continually faced with lower revenues.

The talk about a Federal Transportation Department is nothing new. It has been discussed in Washington for years. As a matter of fact, former President Harry Truman, while a Senator from Missouri, advocated such a department and introduced a bill in the Senate to set up a Department of Transportation to cover all forms of transportation... rail, highway, air and water. The talk here now, however seems to envision either a separate cabinet level office or a huge governmental agency on a par with the now defunct Reconstruction Finance Corporation. It would not only control and subsidize or provide capital for the public transportation systems, but would engulf the present Bureau of Public Roads and take over the plan advocated by President Eisenhower for a 50 billion dollar highway construction program, for a coast-to-coast and border-to-border system of interstate highways.

While there has been widespread consideration of this highway program, the one stumbling block which has prevented it from even getting off the ground, is the question of how to finance such a system. It will be one of the most important and highly controversial questions to come before this next 84th Congress. While the Eisenhower Administration has at least talked about a hands-off policy of meddling in state affairs, which would immediately rule out federal participation in secondary and farm-to-market roads, the thinking is that the nation's security would justify Federal participation, and that the present condition of highways is nullifying productive efficiency by causing inefficient distribution.

At any rate, watch for the setup of a new Department of Transportation in this next Congress. Whether it will encompass an inter-state Federal highway system is questionable. But only the Federal government could finance it.

A peek at THE STARS

By LYN CONNELLY

TRAVEL-HAPPY Bill Cullen thought his coast-to-coast commuting days were over! He even put a notice in "Variety," the magazine of show people, thanking the airlines for their wonderful cooperation and adding, "Somebody goofed so that now all my shows will emanate from New York" . . . But Bill has discovered that he spoke too soon for once again he will be the "most travellin'" emcee when the popular "Place the Face" shows moves to NBC television this fall . . . This means Bill will again be traveling to work between New York and Hollywood . . . Last year, the energetic star covered 192,000 cross-country miles to appear on all his radio and TV shows. Bill's sincerity and charm add the necessary flavor to the year-old show which has brought many laughs and thrills to both participants and viewers . . . Each week, three guests, usually celebrities, are asked to "place the face" of a person who played a significant part in their pasts . . . This "mystery" person may be anyone from a first beau to a long lost relative.

WASHINGTON

- Q—What is the population of the average Congressional district?
A—In 1950, the last congressional reapportionment, the average population was 346,400 giving the House a membership of 435. Under this apportionment, four states, Delaware, Nevada, Vermont and Wyoming have only one congressman, although they have two Senators, as do every other state. The constitutional requirement is at least one Congressman to a state.
- Q—Must a Congressman reside within the district he represents?
A—Legally No. The constitution requires only that he be a resident of the state. But it is considered politically expedient for him to reside in his district.
- Q—Has a Congress ever refused to seat a member who did not reside within his district?
A—No. The last time such a question arose was in the 70th Congress when a Congressman was elected from the Pennsylvania first district which is within the city of Philadelphia. The Congressman claimed however that his residence was in Pennsylvania and he was seated.
- Q—Has a President ever served in the Senate after leaving the White House?
A—Yes. Andrew Johnson who served as President from 1865 to 1869 was elected to the Senate March 5, 1875, and died on July 31, 1875. In the 1854 election, Alben Barkley who served many years in the Senate and was Vice-president during the Truman administration, is running for the Senate.
- Q—How many newspapermen, radio and Magazine correspondents cover the Congress?
A—At the first session of the 83rd Congress there were approximately 1,200 correspondents accredited to the House and Senate Press galleries.

DALE CARNEGIE

★ AUTHOR OF "HOW TO STOP WORRYING AND START LIVING" ★

MARGARET E. LAMBERT, 821 Bronx River Road, Bronxville, New York, says that there came a time when her family was broke, really broke, with exactly eighty-seven cents in the family exchequer. After the war her husband, Johnny, had started his own business; it folded in a short time, "from riches to rags in ten easy lessons." Unable to find work in his particular field, no money, no source of income, two small children to care for. They had lots of worries.

A conference was called and it was decided that Margaret would go back to work. That idea she enjoyed. Being a nurse, she was able to work at night which left her free in the day time to care for the house and children. Her husband helped all he could and they were both pretty busy every minute with formulas, cooking and the innumerable daily chores. Busy but not unhappy. They had no time to worry about the butcher's bill or the payment on the mortgage which was long past due. It was an experience she says she would not have wanted to miss, for she learned from it that if we keep busy doing something constructive about solving our problems, do the very best we can, living for today and letting tomorrow take care of itself, there is no time left for useless fretting and worrying. So one fine day they woke up to the discovery that their troubles were behind them. What did it? Steady application!

DO IT YOURSELF

The chemical reaction of water and the salts in bricks sometimes forms unsightly, powered stains on brick walls.

Known as efflorescence, these white, blotchy stains can often be removed by scrubbing with clear water. However, a surer method, states Household magazine, is to make a solution of 1 part muriatic acid and 10 parts water.

Apply this mixture with a fiber brush, then rinse with clear water immediately.

While you're at it, check for places where water may be trickling down into or behind the brick wall. Inspect flashings, the roof and window sills.

November 18, Set For Annual Methodist Bazaar - Supper

Thursday, November 18th, is the date for the Yellow Springs Methodist Church Annual Bazaar and Supper which comes the Thursday before Thanksgiving.

It will be held in the new Parish House Basement. Mrs. Robert Beal and Mrs. Earl Ellison are co-chairmen of the event which is always looked forward to with great anticipation as it is the Annual Get-Together for a good time for all the members of the church and their friends in the community.

Among the various booths that have been planned are: Apron, Kitchen, Baby, Doll and Toy, Country Store, Baked Goods, Needle and Handicraft, White Elephant, Fish Pond for the youngsters and a Flower and Plant Booth as well as a Miscellaneous Booth.

This is a good opportunity to find that extra nice Christmas gift for that extra nice person on your list.

The supper promises to be extra good this year with Turkey and all the trimmings on the menu. Mrs. Eugene Birch, Mrs. Roger Blair, Mrs. Fay Funderburg and Mrs. Everett Bailey are the kitchen committee, while Mrs. Cornelius Grinnell and Mrs. Alton Prince will serve as co-chairmen of the dining room committee.

The price of an evening meal is $1.25 for adults and $.65 for children under 12 years of age. Tickets may be secured by calling Mrs. Guy Varner at 7-7688 or the Methodist Church Parsonage, 7-7454. If you purchase your tickets early you and your family can choose between 5:00, 5:45 or 6:30 as the hour you wish to be served.

LEGAL SISTERS . . . Joyce Puerer, 28 (left) and her sister Janice, 26, of St. Louis, Mo., stand before U. S. Supreme Court where they were admitted to practice recently.

INDOMITABLE DOME . . . Berlin demolition engineers using thermite fail to topple dome of Reichstag which survived 1934 Nazi fire and World War II bombings.

WORLD BEAUTY . . . Antigone Constanta of Egypt won title "Miss World, 1954" over beauties of 16 countries in London contest. She gets $1,400 and film contract.

U. S. EVACUATES . . . American soldiers wave farewell as they depart from Trieste "Zone A," ceded to Italy by terms of London treaty with Yugoslavia.

BATS TANKS . . . New battalion anti-tank (Bat) 106mm recoilless rifle, weighing under 500 pounds has double range and penetration of old models. Operated by three men, it can knock out largest tanks.

BRINGING UP REAR . . . Roller skater "corset" enables "Fritsell," of San Jose, Calif., to play with feline pal "Alice," Dachshund ruptured vertebral disk, and must wear device until disk heals.

The Splendor of Self-Control (Temperance)
Lesson for November 7: Proverbs 14: 29; 15: 1-3; 16: 32; 20: 1, 22; 23: 29-35.

Golden Text: Proverbs 16: 32.
The lesson deals with anger and strong drink. As to the first we learn that he who rises to the highest of all mastery, self-control, is greater than the mighty man who taketh a city. There is nothing to be more desired, in the time of anger, than to be cool and the master of one's spirit. For anger, unrestrained, disturbs the reasoning faculty and ruins a man's better judgment. A man, giving way to violent anger, is less able to deal with a wily opponent. And, if no serious trouble comes, people will say that he made a spectacle of himself, and he will be remembered as a man who cannot control his temper.

As for the control of one's appetite for strong drink, a man should avoid learning the evil of it when he has drained the cup to the bitterness of the dregs. Beverage alcohol is advertised and pictured as a wondrous thing, associated with flowers and beautiful and pleasant things. But nothing is said about its ruinous effect upon body and mind. If drinking wine three thousand years ago was found to be ruinous in the extreme, what should be thought of the distilled and potent drinks of the present.

Sorrow, violence, and disaster of many kinds come to the man who tarrys long with strong drink. Yet, despite all the woes that come upon him, he is seldom cured by adversity. And when at last he rises from a spree, he says, "I will seek it yet again." Both by precept and example, Christian people should set themselves resolutely against the use of beverage alcohol.

THIS innovation of getting advertising in the mail addressed to "Occupant" or "box holder" has brought me to wonder how so many people selling soap and milk, lending money or refinancing the already over-financed individual can afford to do business with someone whose name isn't even known to them.

I'm inclined to wonder what would happen if I filled out one of those attached order forms and signed it "Occupant, 106 Milk-born Drive."

Maybe I shouldn't complain. I can remember the time when I would have welcomed any type of correspondence. If it came through the mails and even faintly resembled a letter, it was a good time-killer, to be read, re-read, put aside and then read again.

Therefore, I'd like to suggest that some of the folks who do this type of advertising, or selling by mail, address some of their correspondence to: "Members of our Armed Forces, wherever you may be."

Just think what fun all the boys up at Thule would have whiling away the hours pouring over literature promoting the merits of a perpetual motion, motor-less air conditioner or a guaranteed, handy, pocket-size ice cube maker. I wish those cold-weather boys could get some of the mail I receive these days. Someone is always reminding me they have "put aside" $300 in my name (when I am flat broke, too) and all I have to do to get it is drop by and sign my name. If my name was "Occupant," I could sure do well to take them up on it.

We've hung the TCP sign on both Shell pumps

Now we can offer you TCP in Regular grade as well as in Premium

It neutralizes lead and carbon deposits, the greatest cause of power waste

Pull in and fill up with Shell Gasoline—and you get performance never before possible with a regular grade gasoline.

Like Shell Premium, Shell "regular" now has TCP, the Shell-developed additive which "fire-proofs" engine deposits in combustion chambers to stop pre-ignition. It also changes lead and carbon deposits on spark plugs to non-conductors of electricity. This prevents the misfiring that wastes fuel and power.

Shell Gasoline with TCP can give you better acceleration, a smoother engine, more miles per gallon. Get this "automatic tune-up" from TCP—today. It's in both our pumps right now!

*Shell's Trademark for this unique gasoline additive developed by Shell Research. Patent applied for.

THANK YOU
Mrs. C. W. Steele desires to express thanks to her friends for their many expressions of sympathy sent her during her recent illness.

CARD OF THANKS
I wish to thank my friends and neighbors, for cards, flowers and other expressions of kindness during my illness at the Greene Memorial Hospital.
Mildred Jackson

Laminated plastic sheets can be cut smoothly and quickly with a fine-toothed cross-cut saw.

Clamp strips of wood on both sides of the plastic sheet along the cutting line. Set the sheet on a firm cutting base, decorative side up.

Use a sharp cross-cut saw and hold it at a low angle to minimize chipping, reminds Household magazine. Cut on the down stroke only.
